

You will watch a video “Learning a Second Language”, listen carefully and order the conversation.

1. ...I got interested in languages, currently I’m learning Arabic. It is fascinating but hard at the same time... (    )
2. ...learning a foreign language is hard right? But why is that?... (    )
3. ...I am living in a multicultural life, I’m from a Korean family but I was born in the States and lived there until I was five... (    )
4. ...according to Harvard Business Review managers in the vast majority of enterprises such as financial services, product design, hospitals and even NASA’s space shuttle program genuinely wanted their organizations learn from failure to improve future performance... (    )
5. ...I want to speak it fluently, in summary I want to be fantastic though I have no idea of it, so how can you speak a really different language but still be good... (    )
6. ...the biggest reason is because people are afraid to be wrong and that is the first step not to be afraid of valuer, be wrong, make mistakes, fail, you should not be ashamed of those... (    )

Open questions

1. Why are people afraid of making mistakes?

Explain: _____
_____.

2. What could happen if you made several mistakes?

Explain: _____
_____.

3. What do you think about the girl’s story?

Explain: _____
_____.

4. What do you think about “learning from failure is much more efficient than just mechanical memorization”?

Explain: _____
_____.